U. S. May Try New Test of Space Rocket

Satellite Carrier's First Stage Hinted For Florida Launching

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Technicians may try again today to test-fire the first stage engine of the Vanguard rocket which they hope ultimately will send an American satellite into space.

Such a firing apparently was put off twice last Friday. Official sources at the missile test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., said test activities would be resumed today.

The testing plan is to send aloft the rocket, using only the first-stage engine. The Vanguard rocket, at full power, is planned to have three stages, the last of which would carry the satellite into an orbit about 300 miles above the earth.

The Russian satellite, Sputnik, the first venture into outer space, now is in its 18th day of circling around the globe. Moscow radio said Sunday Sputnik has completed 235 circuits and that it is on schedule. The broadcast said the baby moon's radio transmitter has continued to work smoothly.

AT CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dr. Richard E. McCrosky said scientists connected with the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory here have determined that as of four days ago Sputnik was circling the earth about once every 95.5 minutes. He said this compares with initial calculations of 96.4 minutes per round trip.

McCrosky and Dr. Charles A. Whitney, another Smithsonian scientist, said information obtained from tracing Sputnik will be directly applicable to future American satellites.

The United States plans to fire some small test spheres in December and to try to send up fully instrumented satellites starting in March.

Some other American scientists were less optimistic about the value of information from Russia's space vehicle.

One of them said: "Chances are we'll never learn very much about Sputnik. The Russians certainly aren't talking, and there's a limit to what you can learn through visual sighting and radio signals."

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star dropped a hint Sunday that the intercontinental missile is in production and ready for use. Red Star said, "Creation of powerful intercontinental missiles has increased considerably the defense capacity of our motherland," adding: "Soviet armed forces now possess various atomic and thermonuclear (hydrogen) weapons as well as long-range and super long-range rockets."

Pet Ram Injures Famous Evangelist

MONTREAT, N. C. (AP)—A pet ram butted Billy Graham three times Sunday, knocking the evangelist 50 feet down rocky mountainside and sending him to bed with a possible fractured knee.

Rev. Mr. Graham was in a pasture to feed apples to the three Suffolk sheep he recently purchased as pets for his children when the ram went into action. The first blow started the preacher down the hillside. The animal followed and struck him twice more as Rev. Mr. Graham tumbled down the rocks.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A top American scientist said today he believes the Russians could successfully launch an intercontinental ballistic missile. But he expressed the opinion the Middle East crisis presents a greater immediate peril to American security than Russian science.

Dr. H. G. Stever, former chief scientist for the Air Force and now associate dean of engineering at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said that Russian launching of the earth satellite demonstrates they are capable of launching an intercontinental missile. But, he added, it would take a long time to make it a reliable weapon.

In the long run, he said, this country must worry more about Soviet technology than about Sputnik. He suggested this country must step up its efforts in basic science development, realizing "the Soviets are strong."

From the standpoint of immediate national security, however, he said concern must be directed toward the current tense situation

RETURNING FROM A FUTILE, last-ditch trip to Germany to seek a cure for amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, the disease which killed baseball star Lou Gehrig, World War II ace Maj. John T. Godfrey, 35, is greeted at Boston's Logan International Airport by his mother, Mrs. Reginald E. Godfrey, and a cousin, Mrs. Montgomery. Godfrey's home is in Freeport, Me. He was treated in Schenectady, Germany, for four months.

Dem Chieftains Chide Ike's Policy in Little Rock Fuss

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats today accused President Eisenhower of being "substantially responsible for the trouble at Little Rock."

A statement approved Sunday by 16 of the 24 members of the national committee's advisory council said the President's responsibility stemmed from his failure "to take an early and firm position for observance of the provisions of the Constitution and laws of the United States."

The civil rights statement was released through the Democratic National Committee. It was the council's first pronouncement on civil rights since the President sent federal troops to Little Rock to enforce a federal court school integration order.

The Democrats also chided the president for not having appointed the Civil Rights Commission provided for in the 1957 Civil Rights Act and urged him to move "without further delay" to implement that law.

SIX WEEKS have elapsed since the law became effective, the council said, but the commission has not been appointed and an assistant attorney general has not been named to direct enforcement of the act.

The order, signed by Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson before his recent retirement, was released Sunday after an account of it appeared in the Washington Post and Times Herald.

The paper said some holders of Air Force contracts for basic research have complained that the harm done to research will be out of proportion to the money saved.

A Defense Department spokesman said Sunday that Wilson's intent was for a careful review by each service of its research test and evaluation programs in the light of the current government economy drive.

"I THINK this is significant," he said, "because it is about as difficult to launch an earth satellite as to hit an earth target, as would be required of a ballistic missile."

A department spokesman said the cuts are intended to come out of the $3.3 billion fund.

Texas Siamese Twins Reported Doing Fine

WELLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—Guadalupe and Rague Estrada, Siamese twin girls born here Saturday, are reported doing well on a diet of glucose water.

"We must step up our efforts in basic science, research and development."

"The Soviets are strong and we had better start thinking that way. It would not be sensible for us to base our policies on their supposed weakness."

$170 Million Research Fund Slash Bared

WASHINGTON (AP)—A two-month old directive which the Defense Department made public only Sunday slashes military research and development spending by at least $170 million.

Sen. Monroney (D-Oklahoma), protesting, urged President Eisenhower to cancel the Aug. 17 directive "right now, before we cut off some idea in mid-brain that might save the country from destruction."

The order, signed by Secretary of Defense Charles Wilson before his recent retirement, was released Sunday after an account of it appeared in the Washington Post and Times Herald.

Flu Absences Gain Rapidly in Schools Here

Absences, most of them caused by influenza and other respiratory infections, skyrocketed almost 500 per cent in at least one Fayette County school Monday.

The situation was only a little better in several other county schools, and absences have nearly doubled since Friday in the city school system.

Milledgeville school reported 250 of its students absent Monday morning. Just a few percentage points behind was the Jeffersonville high school with 28 per cent absenteeism.

Both schools reported 7 per cent absent last Friday.

Significant was the fact that Jeffersonville's elementary classes had only 7 per cent absenteeism Monday but 28 per cent absent in the high school.

MADISON MILLS school was third high in the county with 15 absent last Friday.

The Washington C. H. system reported 14.3 per cent of its students were out Monday morning, an increase from 7.4 per cent Friday.

Miami Trace Superintendent Walker W. Boyer reported the following absenteeism in other schools of his district: Wayne, 14 per cent; Staunton, 9 per cent; Bloomingburg, 7 per cent, and all other schools 5 per cent or less.

"Monday isn't a good day to get a true picture," Boyer said. "There are always more students absent on Mondays and Fridays than during the regular week day."

Sabina schools were showing a "recovery" today although 15 per cent of the students were still absent. Last Friday the Sabina system had 18 per cent out. Vernon Tunyan, administrator of the system, said that he expected "quite a few more back Tuesday than are here today."

friends from President and Mrs. Eisenhower marked the end of the queen's visit to Washington Sunday night.

Elizabeth, weary but smiling gamely, stood on the train's observation platform and waved her hand.

A minute after her arrival she stepped from her train onto a 65-foot-long red carpet on Staten Island, across the bay south of Manhattan's monumental spires.

New York's Gov. Averell Harriman stepped forward to greet the queen and other dignitaries joined in the welcome.

After a ferryboat ride across to Manhattan, Elizabeth was feted in a ticker-tape motorcade up lower Broadway to City Hall.

The queen will be lucky if she has even time to catch a breath today. Hardly any more could be crowded into a single day's activities.

Among other events in her honor are a luncheon at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, a trip to the observation roof of the Empire State Building, a visit to the United Nations and a banquet at the Waldorf-Astoria.

SIX WEEKS have elapsed since the law became effective, the council said, but the commission has not been appointed and an assistant attorney general has not been named to direct enforcement of the act.

Two other weekend statements from the council dealt with foreign affairs, national defense and economics.

The economics declaration flatly asserted the Eisenhower administration's asserted "negative" attack on the "worse peacetime inflation" in history and called for a change in the "tight money" policy, tax aid for small business and price stabilization.

Declaring that the cost of living has increased in all but one of the last 19 months, the Democrats said the GOP has done nothing but raise interest rates and tighten the supply of money.

"There must be an increased supply of funds at reasonable rates for productive investment, home and school construction," the council said. "The first need now is to resume growth, to get production rising again. If living costs continue to rise or do so when expansion is resumed, we must have an active, firm and broadly based policy to insure price stability."

THE CIVIL RIGHTS STATEMENT was also critical of the President's handling of the Little Rock situation.

More Churches, Pastors Needed, Methodists Told

Problems Resulting From Ohio's Growth Outlined in Talk

More churches and more ministers are needed to meet Ohio's increasing population, Dr. Clarence LaRue of Columbus told between 140 and 150 adults who assembled in Grace Church Sanctuary Sunday night for the first of four meetings to discuss problems facing the Methodist Church.

Dr. LaRue's talk was actually a report on the Ohio Area Study which he directed for the Methodist Church.

The meeting followed a potluck supper in Fellowship Hall. Children who had come with their parents were divided into three groups and taken to rooms where entertainment and religious study was provided for them during Dr. LaRue's report.

The Commission of Missions of Grace Church is sponsoring the meetings. Mrs. John Rhoads, the chairman, presided Sunday night.

Mrs. Benjamin Willis

SABINA — Mrs. Clara Willis, a native of Washington C. H. who had lived in Sabina for the last five years, died in Clinton County Memorial Hospital, Wilmington, at 8:30 a. m. Monday.

Mrs. Willis suffered a stroke Sunday and was taken to the hospital about 9 p. m.

Her husband, Benjamin Willis, was taken to the hospital at the same time for treatment of injuries he suffered in a fall Saturday.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Willis leaves a brother Arnold Jones of Cleveland, and three stepsons, Lewis Franklin Willis of Twinsburg, Lyman Willis of Wilmington and Douglas Gayles Willis of Columbus.

Arrangements for the services, in charge of the Littleton Funeral Home, have not been completed.

Elizabeth A. Garner — Services for Miss Elizabeth Ann Garner were held at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Parrett Funeral Home. The Rev. Don McMillin of the First Church of Christ was in charge. Miss Garner died Thursday.

Burial was in Washington Cemetery. Pallbearers were John Chayey, Charles Wiscup, Willard Kelly, Willis Anthony, Frank Shackleford and Virgil Cramblit.

Ohio Already has ceased to be rural," Dr. LaRue asserted, emphasizing that "more people now live in cities than in the country."

"Moreover," he added, "the cities determine the outlook of the great bulk of the people of Ohio, even those living in towns and country."

He quoted these comparative population figures: 6,646,697 in 1930, 6,907,612 in 1935; 7,946,627 in 1950; 9,606,000 in 1955 and 10,771,142 is expected by 1966.

Dr. La Rue declared:

Except in Northwest Ohio and Southeast Ohio, the state will become almost solidly urban. One of the amazing developments of recent times is the centering of our people in cities as to work and interests, but their living in the suburbs or the open country fairly near cities. The cities have in effect spread all over the state.

"The churches of Ohio have a very great responsibility and an amazing opportunity, which calls for a very different type of church than that of a rural Ohio.

"We must minister to the needs of the people of this new day. There are entirely new family conditions. There is vastly more leisure. There are temptations besetting our youth never dreamed of 25 or even 50 years ago. The currents of life in this new day will flow swiftly.

"One of the very difficult tasks we are facing is that of maintaining our skills and interests in town and country, while at the same time developing skills and a profound concern for city people."

U. N. Given Complaints On Israeli Plane Attack

JERUSALEM (P) — Both Jordan and Israel have complained to the U.N. Mixed Armistice Commission about an encounter between a Jordanian civilian airliner and an Israeli jet fighter.

The American pilot of the airliner, Capt. Jesse Stallworth of Pine Bluff, Ark., said an Israeli jet fired on his aircraft five times Saturday as he flew over the town of Agaba, Jordan. Stallworth said none of the shots hit.

Ohio Weekend Mishaps Fatal to 29 Persons

COLUMBUS (P) — Fire claimed eight of the 29 accidental deaths in Ohio over the weekend. Seventeen persons were killed on the state's highways.

Traffic fatalities were spotted throughout an Associated Press survey of accidental deaths which covered the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

"Our greatest task is that of resolutely keeping the church the church. This is not to be done by trying to maintain the church life just as it was for our forefathers.

"The Christian people of Ohio are dreaming of an Ohio that will not only be one of the world's greatest industrial civilizations but will also be a 'City of God.'

Next Sunday night, Dr. John D. Dickhaut of Columbus, will address a similar meeting on 'The Need and Training of the Methodist Minister.'

Six Accidents Reported Here Over Weekend

Episcopal Bishop's Car Damaged in CCC Highway Crash

There were no injuries and only one arrest in six auto accidents reported here over the weekend.

Ed $10 and costs for failure to yield the right of way in Municipal Court Monday was John C. Sullivan, 42, of 914 E. Market St., who was involved in an accident at 9 a. m. Sunday on the CCC Highway, a mile west.

Sullivan, who pleaded guilty, told Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Mickle he was turning out of a driveway and accidentally swerved into the lane across the road hitting an auto driven by the Rt. Rev. Henry W. Hobson of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio. Bishop Hobson lives in Cincinnati.

The right front side of Sullivan's car and the right of the bishop's automobile were damaged.

Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

British-U. S. Pooling of Science Eyed

LONDON (P) — The British government today was reported shaping up a proposal for pooling all U. S.-British scientific resources, including nuclear and rocket research.

Prime Minister Macmillan, who will begin conferences in Washington with President Eisenhower Wednesday, will present to his Cabinet a plan under which the two allies would coordinate their scientific effort through a joint planning directorate with headquarters in Washington.

There was speculation that other members of the British Commonwealth might be invited to join if the United States agreed.

For the United States to take part, Congress might have to repeal or revise the McMahon Act, which sharply curtails the sharing of atomic information, even with friendly nations.

Macmillan's Conservative government evidently feels the recent forward strides by the Soviet Union may persuade Congress the act should be changed.

Britain's enthusiasm for a pooling of effort has been evident for some time.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (P) — A newspaper proved to be more than just good reading to Norman E. Daw, 57, of Phoenix.

Commissioners To Set Date

For Hearing on Ditch Costs

County commissioners have decided to set a date for a final hearing on estimates of costs to landowners for proposed improvements on the Camp Run-Persinger ditch in Jasper Township, after a final report on such estimates is made by County Engineer Charles Wagner on Dec. 2.

An agreement to this effect was made by the commissioners following the recent first hearing on the ditch petition. It was officially approved on the minutes read at Monday's meeting of the board.

Services will be provided by the commissioners for the expense of upkeep and improvement of the institution with the state furnishing a substantial subsidy per patient.

THIS REPORT showed that Fayette County now has only one patient at Mt. Logan, although recently several others were there who were since discharged but who return to the institution as outpatients for checkups and treatments, if necessary.

Fayette was charged only for 286 regular patient days for the three months just ended, the net cost being $1,962.51. The cost per patient day is $9.82 but the net cost to the county was only $6.86 per day by reason of patients from here assuming part of the charges.

The number of patients from other counties in the district was reported as follows: Pike 7, Highland 21, Scioto 21.

Fayette County's net cost was the lowest in the district, the next lowest being Highland with $4,285. The highest was Scioto County reported as $16,317, second highest Ross County with $13,036.

The commissioners reported that this county is paying expense of one other TB patient being cared for at a Columbus institution.

Ben-Gurion's Daughter Says Vacations Spent Working

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (P) — Dr. Renana Ben-Gurion, daughter of Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion, says everyone in Israel works 46 hours a week and vacations from one month to another.

Many of them are skilled professional workers. Israel needs their specialized training. But it's no good if they're unsettled in their daily lives."

Ben-Gurion says the program calls for some 30,000 units of 2½ rooms, which she estimates will cost about $3,000 each to build.

A tall, intense, blonde-haired woman of 32, Renana Ben-Gurion, who once smuggled hand grenades to Israeli soldiers during her country's war of liberation, said:

"Israel is still a growing country with full security still in the future. All of us work hard. And if a woman can do a job, it's hers—with no questions asked."

Israel, she says, expects to absorb more than 100,000 immigrants before the end of the year, 25,000 of them from Iron Curtain areas alone.

"Camps set up in the past to take care of these refugees didn't work," she said. "They need real houses that they can live in."

She said her father once told her that if he had his life to live over again, he would like to specialize in physics. When she was young he used to talk about his history and philosophy, she added, but now when he visits her and her husband in their Tel Aviv apartment, science generally is the subject of conversation.

Manion said a reference in the speech to a fatal assault on a non-striking Kohler worker and refusal of Michigan officials to extradite the alleged assailant apparently were the principal objections of network attorneys.

More Churches, Pastors Needed, Methodists Told

Problems Resulting From Ohio's Growth
Outlined in Talk

More churches and more ministers are needed to meet Ohio's increasing population, Dr. Clarence LaRue of Columbus told between 140 and 150 adults who assembled in Grace Church Sanctuary Sunday night for the first of four meetings to discuss problems facing the Methodist Church.

Dr. LaRue's talk was actually a report on the Ohio Area Study which he directed for the Methodist Church.

The meeting followed a potluck supper in Fellowship Hall. Children who had come with their parents were divided into three groups and taken to rooms where entertainment and religious study was provided for them during Dr. LaRue's report.

The Commission of Missions of Grace Church is sponsoring the meetings. Mrs. John Rhoads, the chairman, presided Sunday night.

THE REV. L. J. Foe, pastor of Grace Church, introduced Dr. LaRue and explained the purpose of the meetings on successive Sunday nights. He also introduced Albert Knox, area public relations director for the church, who showed slides, principally of graphs showing population trends, to illustrate Dr. LaRue's talk.

The Rev. Mr. Poe said after the meeting that churches of all denominations face the same problems and that the study had been made by the Methodist Church because "since it is the largest in Ohio, it was felt that the study was its responsibility."

Dr. LaRue told the gathering that the church laid the moral and spiritual foundations upon which Ohio was reared" as it emerged from the wilderness and then pointed out that "today the people of Ohio are again dreaming about the future, a dream that Ohio will become a great industrial state."

"OHIO ALREADY has ceased to be rural," Dr. LaRue asserted, emphasizing that "more people now live in cities than in the country."

"Moreover," he added, "the cities determine the outlook of the great bulk of the people of Ohio, even those living in town and country."

Deaths, Funerals Over Weekend

Roy R. Oswald

Roy R. Oswald, 73, CCC Highway east, died at 12:40 a.m. Sunday in Memorial Hospital where he had been admitted 10 minutes earlier. Mr. Oswald, a farmer, had been ill for a week.

He was born and reared in the house which he and his wife occupied at the time of his death and was a lifelong resident of Fayette County. He was a member of the Bloomingburg Methodist Church.

Mr. Oswald is survived by his wife, Hazel; daughter, Mrs. Doris Althoff, Columbus; three grandchildren; two brothers, Fred Oswald, CCC Highway east, and Charles E. Oswald, New Holland - Bloomingburg Rd.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Gerstner Funeral Home with the Rev. Bert O'Connor, pastor of the Bloomingburg Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in the village cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

Mrs. Benjamin Willis

Six Accidents Reported Here Over Weekend

Episcopal Bishop's Car Damaged in
CCC Highway Crash

There were no injuries and only one arrest in six auto accidents reported here over the weekend.

Fined $10 and costs for failure to yield the right of way in Municipal Court Monday was John C. Sullivan, 42, of 914 E. Market St., who was involved in an accident at 9 a.m. Sunday on the CCC Highway, a mile west.

Sullivan, who pleaded guilty, told Deputy Sheriff Lawrence Mickle he was turning out of a driveway and accidentally swerved into the lane across the road hitting an auto driven by the Rev. Henry W. Hobson of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Ohio. Bishop Hobson lives in Cincinnati.

The right front side of Sullivan's car and the right of the bishop's automobile were damaged.

A SMALL European type sedan was demolished about 12:30 p.m. Saturday on Route 62, 3½ miles north of Leesburg when the driver, William Frank Brown, 36, of Columbus, skidded off the road and into a ditch. He told Deputy Sheriff Donald Thompson he missed the curve. The car rolled over.

A three-car vehicle accident on Route 22 about two miles east of here at 2 p.m. Saturday wrecked a car operated by Cary Hugh Michael, 65, of Bloomingburg Rd.

Michael was headed east and hit the rear of an eastbound tractor-manure spreader operated by Jink Jones, 56, of 1109 Rawlings St.

The empty manure spreader skidded lengthwise across the road and a westbound auto driven by Harold Edward Miller, 46, of Dayton, smashed into it. The grill on Miller's car was smashed. The manure spreader was only slightly damaged.

THE OTHER THREE accidents resulted from three similar sets of circumstances. In each case, one driver was attempting to make left turn when another attempted to pass.

A 1957 sedan belonging to a Jamestown auto dealer and driven by Andy Fraley, 49, of Sabina, was damaged on Elm St., at Willard St. about 2:45 p.m. Saturday when Fraley started to pass a turning auto operated by James Hurd, 65, of 1227 Willard St.

JOHN WILLIAM NINCE, 40, of Parrett Station was turning on the CCC Highway a half mile west when he hit a passing car operated by William Howard Wessel, 48, of Bloomingburg.

Turning from Route 62 into Jameson Rd. was Charles W. Strouse, 61, of Snowhill Rd., who hit a passing car driven by Harold Kelly, 35, of Columbus.

Damage was to the right side of the passing auto and the left front side of the turning car in each case. All three turning drivers said they had directional signals operating, and all three passing drivers said they did not see them.

Hebron Store Burns

NEWARK (AP) — Fire destroyed the Hebron Hardware store and all its contents Sunday night, causing damage estimated unofficially at $70,000.

3 Proposed Amendments To Appear On Ohio's Ballot at November Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Principal statewide interest when Ohioans go to the polls Nov. 5 will center on a proposed amendment to the state constitution to simplify adoption of county government charters.

It will be amendment No. 3 on the ballot. Majority approval of those voting will make it a part of the constitution.

Adoption of the amendment would divide Ohio counties into two classes—those with more than 500,000 population and those below. On the basis of the most recent 1950 census, only three counties top the 500,000 mark, counties top the 500,000 mark. They are Cuyahoga (Cleveland) and Hamilton (Cincinnati) and Franklin (Columbus).

The proposed amendment in counties with more than one-half million population, would cut out one of four steps in the complex process by which voters may approve a countywide municipal government. It is perhaps the key step—the requirement that a majority of the other municipalities and townships in the county must approve the move to put them out of business.

Because the proposal is so complex, it would be wise to begin at the beginning.

For nearly a quarter-century since the voters approved it in 1933—it has been possible under a provision of the Ohio Constitution for counties to frame and adopt county home-rule charters.

But, in the intervening years, not a single Ohio county has adopted such a charter. Several such attempts have run aground on the reef of a four-way voter approval required for such a change.

The constitution now reads:

"No charter or amendment vesting any municipal powers in the county shall become effective unless it shall have been approved by a majority of those voting thereon (1) in the county, (2) in the largest municipality, (3) in the county outside of such municipality, and (4) in each of a majority of the combined total of municipalities and townships in the county (not including within any township any part of its area lying within a municipality)."

In other words, a majority of almost every conceivable group affected by such a move now must agree before it can be approved.

Such a move was attempted in Cuyahoga County in 1935. A majority of Cleveland voters and a majority of Cuyahoga County voters casting their ballots approved a countywide city government. But it was not approved by a majority of those voting in the county outside municipalities and it was not approved by enough of the 60 cities, villages and townships in the county outside Cleveland. Therefore, ruled the Ohio Supreme Court, the proposal was defeated.

Now comes the proposed change in the 1933 amendment.

It proposes, first of all, that a simple majority of all those voting in a county could approve a charter which permits a county to perform some (not all) city functions.

Writing in the Ohio Township

tions on a so-called "concurrent" basis.

Under such a charter, for instance, a countywide police or fire force could be established, but any municipality or township within the county which preferred to have its own police or fire department could do so on a "concurrent" basis.

Under this simple majority vote provision only, this safeguard would be provided:

"In case of conflict between the exercise of powers granted by such charter and the exercise of powers by municipalities or townships, granted by the constitution or general law, whether or not such powers are being exercised at the time of the adoption of the charter, the exercise of power by the municipality or township shall prevail."

But, if the proposed charter provides "exclusive" municipal rights to the countywide city government in counties of more than 500,000 population, three steps in the present four-step vote requirement would apply.

Approval of "exclusive" municipal rights for a countywide government in one of the big three counties would require majority approval of (1) the entire county, (2) of the largest city, and (3) of the county outside the largest city.

It would not require the approval of a majority of the other municipalities and townships within the county. Generally, these other municipalities and townships are the only effective opponents of any proposal which would permit an expansion-minded city to encompass an entire county.

Opponents contend this elimination of a vocal, organized minority would enable Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus to snatch metropolitan bosoms without even a peep of official protest from the overwhelmed communities.

In the counties below the 500,000 population mark, the four-step approval process would be unchanged for "exclusive" county charters.

The fight over Amendment No. 3 pits the Ohio State Assn. of Township Trustees and Clerks against the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, the League of Women Voters, the Cleveland Bureau of Business Research, Citizen's League of Cleveland, Cleveland Federation of Labor and both the Republican and Democratic executive committees in Cuyahoga County.

The Ohio Chamber takes this position:

"While several efforts have been made by counties to activate this section of the constitution (the present four-step process), no county has succeeded in obtaining the necessary voter majorities to put such metropolitan county plans into operation. Ohio's continued industrial and population growth has pointed up in the minds of many legislators the need for modifying the present provisions of the constitution. . . . The so-called 'four-step' majority vote approval requirements have proved to be too severe a test."

Charles P. Baker Jr., Painesville, executive secretary-treasurer of the Ohio State Assn. of Township Trustees and Clerks, comments: "To me, it appears to be just another step in with the 'bigs' can run the 'smalls.' "

Writing in the Ohio Township

News, Baker elaborated: "First, it (the amendment) is wrong in principle. It is a step toward further centralization of government. What claims to be a home-rule amendment is home rule only for the largest city. It destroys home rule for every other city, village and township."

"It pulls down the community which is willing to work and pay for extra benefits and reduces it to the common level. It discards the talents of the hundreds of leading citizens who are now devoting their spare time to serving in public office in smaller political subdivisions."

"Second, the amendment is designed for the benefit of the big cities, not for the benefit of the surrounding territory. The big cities, not for the benefit of the surrounding territory. The big cities are grasping for more revenues . . . if the big cities are in financial trouble, making them still bigger will not solve the problem."

"The constitution already provides for a county charter, if the four hurdles are met. The fourth hurdle requires that the charter be good for the little units as well as the big one. Let's keep it that way."

3 Proposed Amendments To Appear On Ohio's Ballot at November Poll

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Principal statewide interest when Ohioans go to the polls Nov. 5 will center on a proposed amendment to the state constitution to simplify adoption of county government charters.

It will be amendment No. 3 on the ballot. Majority approval of those voting will make it a part of the constitution.

Adoption of the amendment would divide Ohio counties into two classes — those with more than 500,000 population and those below. On the basis of the most recent — 1950 — census, only three counties top the 500,000 mark. They are Cuyahoga (Cleveland and) Hamilton (Cincinnati) and Franklin (Columbus).

The proposed amendment in counties with more than one-half million population, would cut out one of four steps in the complex process by which voters may approve a countywide municipal government. It is perhaps the key step—the requirement that a majority of the other municipalities and townships in the county must approve the move to put them out of business.

Because the proposal is so complex, it would be wise to begin at the beginning.

For nearly a quarter-century since the voters approved it in 1933—it has been possible under a provision of the Ohio Constitution for counties to frame and adopt county home-rule charters.

But, in the intervening years, not a single Ohio county has adopted such a charter. Several such attempts have run aground on the reef of a four-way voter approval required for such a change:

The constitution now reads:

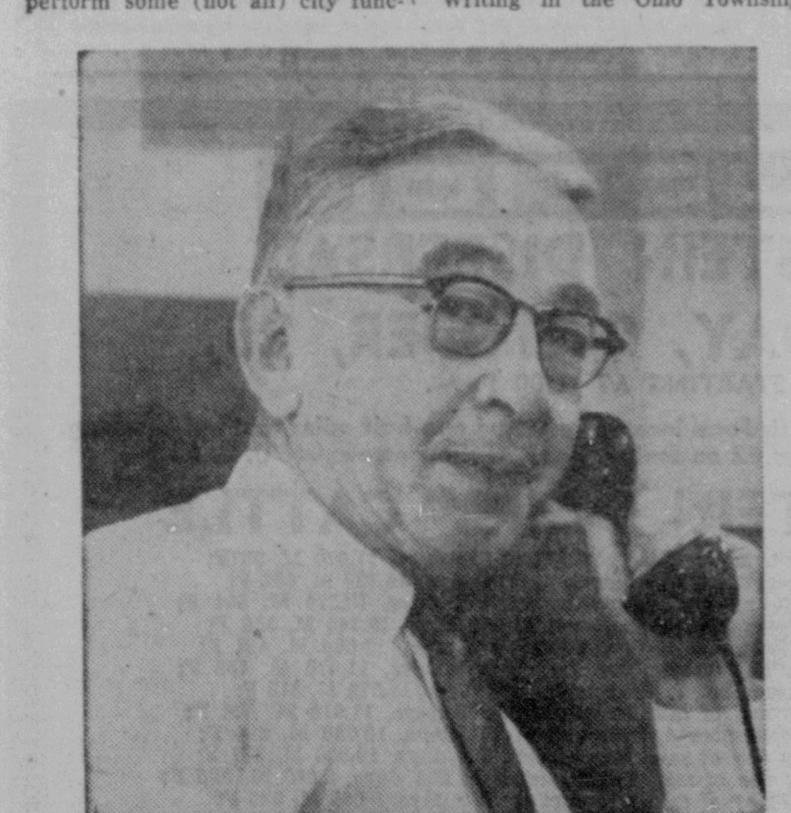

"No charter or amendment vesting any municipal powers in the county shall become effective unless it shall have been approved by a majority of those voting thereon (1) in the county, (2) in the largest municipality, (3) in the county outside of such municipality, and (4) in each of a majority of the combined total of municipalities and townships in the county (not including within any township any part of its area lying within a municipality)."

In other words, a majority of almost every conceivable group affected by such a move now must agree before it can be approved.

Such a move was attempted in Cuyahoga County in 1935. A majority of Cleveland voters and a majority of Cuyahoga County voters casting their ballots approved a countywide city government. But it was not approved by a majority of those voting in the county outside municipalities and it was not approved by enough of the 60 cities, villages and townships in the county outside Cleveland. Therefore, ruled the Ohio Supreme Court, the proposal was defeated.

Now comes the proposed change in the 1933 amendment.

It proposes, first of all, that a simple majority of all those voting in a county could approve a charter which permits a county to perform some (not all) city functions.

Mary Martin To Play 'Annie'

TV Spectacular Due Thanksgiving Eve

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Mary Martin is treating audiences nightly to one of the most exciting moments in the theater.

The moment comes in the first act of "Annie Get Your Gun" when Annie Oakley makes her big debut with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show. The curtains part and there is Mary riding at full gallop on a white charger while shooting targets out of the air.

Television audiences will get to see the stirringfeat on Thanksgiving eve, when Mary will star in "Annie" on a two-hour spectacular over NBC.

Probably no other top star would undertake such a stunt except Mary, whose devotion to the theater knows no bounds.

An elaborate mechanism was devised to carry off the stunt. A treadmill had to be equipped with an electric motor to get it started. Wires were attached to the horse in four places to prevent its getting off the track.

But still, the device wasn't fool-proof. When Mary and co-star John Raitt were posing for photos in San Francisco, the horse reared and sent the expensive talent tumbling on their — onto the stage.

Three horses and two cowboys are required for the stunt. One is used for Mary's gallop. Another carries Mary and Raitt for a walk at the finale. Another nag is required as a standin.

Consumer Demand, Debt, and Our Economy

In nearly every community in this nation during the past 10 years the American consumer has improved his standard of living.

It was pointed out recently by the research department of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland that supplying the vast quantities of goods and services demanded by consumers has been one of the major sustaining forces contributing to high levels of prosperity achieved in this country in recent years.

It is also brought to attention that the consumer has financed his higher standard of living out of savings and in most cases rising income, also plus heavy borrowing.

Thus while the average consumer at present is making more money and living better than he was 10 years ago, in a great many cases he is also deeper in debt.

Despite this growing debt burden, however, aggregate consumer demand, according to many financial reports and various writers, continues at record levels.

Growth of total consumer demand comes from two sources: increases in the population and the desire for higher living standards.

Demand for new homes and automobiles, naturally received quite a stimulus from over 7,000,000 new consumers entering the market since 1948. At the same time, the seemingly universal desire for more worldly possessions was translated into effective demand in the market place. The proportion of spending units owning a car rose from about 50 per cent in 1948 to 72 per cent in 1957. Home ownership in the same ten-year period rose from 43 per cent to 54 per cent. Television, which was practically unknown in 1948, can now be found in eight out of every ten electrified homes.

Accident-Proneness: A Disease

NEW YORK (AP)—One out of five of the 95,000 persons killed in accidents in America in 1956 was accident-prone.

"Accident-proneness is a disease, a psychosomatic manifestation of a disease process," said Dr. John Henderson.

Dr. Henderson, medical director of Johnson & Johnson, New Brunswick, N. J., is one of a growing number of experts in the field who feels that the nation's high accident rate cannot be effectively lowered until it is realized that accident-proneness is an ailment, just as are alcoholism and heart attacks, and proper treatment is employed.

The accident toll last year, beside 95,000 dead, included 9,500,000 injured, of whom 350,000 suffered permanent physical impairment. The National Safety Council estimated the cost at $11.2 billion in property damage and time lost from work.

As the result of careful studies scientists now feel they can often detect by psychological

Less spectacular, but nonetheless substantial, increases in consumer ownership can be listed for a wide range of consumer durable goods. Some, like dishwashers, clothes dryers and power lawn mowers, appear to have caught the consumer's fancy in the past few years and promise substantial growth in the future.

Looking at the progress made by consumers over the past decade, nearly all observers admit the desirability of generally high levels of consumer demand as a strong sustaining force to the national economy.

There is a difference of opinion, however, among many shrewd observers, noticeable as to the implication of the growing debt burden of consumers. Some analysts believe that consumers cannot continue indefinitely to spend so much of their future incomes; others, relying principally on historical ratios, claim that the relation of debt repayment to income of the average consumer is still within safe limits.

Another big question is whether more expansion of consumer debt is inflationary in its consequences.

During a period of full utilization of resources, increase in debt tends to become most inflationary when, rather than being financed out of savings, it is financed by the nation's banking systems in a way to involve an expansion in the money supply.

Some reputable financial observers are saying that although the present business situation indicates more uncertainty at present than in previous years, it would appear that the main direction is still inflationary and that strong consumer demand, supplemented by consumer borrowing, plays a big part in the overall problem.

2. You haven't won the accident-prone person, who is usually either maladjusted emotionally or immature, or both.

"Accident-proneness is partly a matter of age," said Dr. Henderson.

"It is not altogether an accident that the leading cause of death from the age of one to about 25 is — accidents. This is the period of greatest rebellion, repression and emotional conflict.

"After 30 the tendency to have accidents begins to fall off. But there is much truth in an old adage of the insurance business:

after three accidents luck is no longer the major factor in the picture."

Are you accident-prone yourself? You may be, according to Dr. Henderson, if—

1. You are fundamentally resentful against anyone or anything in life, carry a deep personal sense of guilt, or brood about your problems while you are at work or behind the wheel of a car.

Sachar, president of Brandeis University, blames the sputnik on Joe McCarthy. That looks to me like a masterpiece of the illogical. Dr. Sachar's argument is that Joe drove brilliant scientists and best State Department career diplomats out of public service and therefore the Russians beat us to the sputnik. Said Dr. Sachar:

"Because of this, we, the most powerful nation in the world, were defeated in the first stage of inter-space travel."

I wonder if Dr. Sachar listed the names of the great scientists and best diplomats that Joe drove from "active life," thus giving Soviet Russia the advantage of superior brains. Joe McCarthy is dead and his sins, whatever they may be, have been judged by his Maker and it can matter little what Dr. Sachar says against him or I say for him.

It is surprising that President Eisenhower does not tell these admirals and generals to get off their rotundities and get on the job. The Russians have made them look like fools and fools they have been quarreling over priorities whereas they ought to be serving the United States.

Joe McCarthy, when he was live, cried out agains' official idiots and the sputnik shows that Joe, at any rate, had something to cry out about. Sen. Stuart Symington has, with excessive gentleness, been c o m p l a i n i n g about Sen. McCarthy and Sen. Symington was that Joe was very impolite and the people heard him. He got a few results, not too many.

To get real results, one must be even more impolite and impolite then Joe was.

"No sirree," said the farmer virtuously. "Honesty is the best policy. You put those little ones on top!"

The farmhand, muttering darkly to himself, obeyed instructions. "Got the top nailed down?" asked the farmer.

"Yup," said the helper, "and I packed it just like you said."

"Good work!" approved the farmer. "Now turn the barrel upside down and label it."

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—A fable for the future:

As it turned out, the United States and Russia landed on the moon at the same time. One American. One Russian. Each jabbed a flagpole into the lava-like ground. The Stars and Stripes faced the Hammer and Sickle. Then the two pioneers grinned at each other.

"Sputnik," said the American, since that was the only Russian word he knew.

"Brooklyn," replied the Russian who had a sister there.

They set about their respective scientific chores, bouncing lightly about in the weak moon gravity. Each made a broadcast to the folks back home. By some unspoken agreement neither pioneer mentioned that another pioneer was present.

Then, exhausted, they sat down together.

"Brooklyn," said the American, tentatively.

"Sputnik," replied the Russian, politely.

Conversation lagged. It is hard to talk through a space helmet even if you know the language. But then the Russian produced a pocket chess set. The American eyes lighted.

"Pawn to queen's four," he murmured, and made his opening move.

The chess match ended in a draw. Then, needing exercise, they Indian-wrestled. Exhausted, they traded dictionaries.

"Peace," said the American in Russian.

"It's wonderful," grinned the Russian in English.

They were at the point ofembracing when their short-wave radios began crackling furiously. "It's war!" cried the pioneers in simultaneous Russian and English.

They listened, appalled. Washington was in ruins, Moscow but a memory. New York was in rubble. Radioactive rats scurried through the scorched bricks that had been Leningrad.

Gradually the two pioneers drew apart.

"You . . . started . . . it," said the American reproachfully, spelling out the words from his borrowed dictionary.

"Must. Must?" screamed the Russian, thumbing pages madly.

"But . . . I . . . not . . . man . . . I . . . woman."

there is peace on the moon today, even if there is a frightful shortage of child-size space helmets.

sage from the President of the United States:

"Understand Russians also landed on moon. Essential to preservation of American way of life that they be wiped out to the last man."

Trained to obedience, the American raised his atomic rifle.

"Nyett!" cried the Russian, frantically leafing through the dictionary.

"Must. Must?" screamed the American hoarsely. "Orders. Kill you to last man."

"Man? Man?" screamed the Russian, thumbing pages madly. "But . . . I . . . not . . . man . . . I . . . woman."

This, children, explains why there is peace on the moon today, even if there is a frightful shortage of child-size space helmets.

Consumer Demand, Debt, and Our Economy

In nearly every community in this nation during the past 10 years the American consumer has improved his standard of living.

It was pointed out recently by the research department of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland that supplying the vast quantities of goods and services demanded by consumers has been one of the major sustaining forces contributing to high levels of prosperity achieved in this country in recent years.

It is also brought to attention that the consumer has financed his higher standard of living out of savings and in most cases rising income, also plus heavy borrowing.

Thus while the average consumer at present is making more money and living better than he was 10 years ago, in a great many cases he is deeper in debt.

Despite this growing debt burden, however, aggregate consumer demand, according to many financial reports and various writers, continues at record levels.

Growth of total consumer demand comes from two sources: increases in the population and the desire for higher living standards.

Demand for new homes and automobiles, naturally received quite a stimulus from over 7,000,000 new consumers entering the market since 1948. At the same time, the seemingly universal desire for more worldly possessions was translated into effective demand in the market place. The proportion of spending units owning a car rose from about 50 per cent in 1948 to 72 per cent in 1957. Home ownership in the same ten-year period rose from 43 per cent to 54 per cent. Television, which was practically unknown in 1948, can now be found in eight out of every ten electrified homes.

Accident-Proneness: A Disease

NEW YORK (AP)—One out of five of the 95,000 persons killed in accidents in America in 1956 was accident-prone.

"Accident-proneness is a disease, a psychosomatic manifestation of a disease process," said Dr. John Henderson.

Dr. Henderson, medical director of Johnson & Johnson, New Brunswick, N. J., is one of a growing number of experts in the field who feels that the nation's high accident rate cannot be effectively lowered until it is realized that accident-proneness is an ailment, just as are alcoholism and heart attacks, and proper treatment is employed.

The accident toll last year, beside 95,000 dead, included 9,500,000 injured, of whom 350,000 suffered permanent physical impairment. The National Safety Council estimated the cost at $11.2 billion in property damage and time lost from work.

As the result of careful studies scientists now feel they can often detect by psychological tests the accident-prone person, who is usually either maladjusted emotionally or immature in judgment, or both.

"Accident-proneness is partly a matter of age," said Dr. Henderson. "It is not altogether an accident that the leading cause of death from the age of one to about 25 is — accidents. This is the period of greatest rebellion, repression and emotional conflict."

"After 30 the tendency to have accidents begins to fall off. But there is much truth in an old adage of the insurance business: after three accidents luck is no longer the major factor in the picture."

Are you prone yourself? You may be, according to Dr. Henderson, if—

1. You are fundamentally resentful against anyone or anything in life, carry a deep personal sense of guilt, or brood about your problems while you are at work or behind the wheel of a car.

The Silly Season

The sputnik has beyond doubt sputnikized many of us.

We have become moon-struck which was an ancient term for those who were believed to be affected by the moon, so that they suddenly ceased to be completely themselves and acted curiously. It was supposed to happen to beasts as well as to man.

It is a pity when the sense of proportion is out of focus because of some new invention or discovery. For instance, when the first atom bomb was exploded, all the weather-vane speechmakers, commentators and writers began to use the phrase, "The Atomic Age," as though something that was so on a Thursday was no longer so on a Friday.

Actually, in the lives of most of us, nothing happened. Those who loved, continued to love; women bore babies; some idiots sought to solve personality problems in the divorce courts, expecting the second to be different from the first only to discover that most are pretty much the same in the little things that are so important to little people.

"The Atomic Age" has not changed the politics of the world; it is even impossible to attribute to it the paucity of first-rate talent everywhere on the earth, all of those who are governing now having been born before Hiroshima and none of them having, to anyone's knowledge, been diverted to reason by atomic rays.

Now I see that Dr. Abram L.

Scope, Impact of Cutback In Military Setup Studied

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a two-part series discussing the scope and impact of the military cutback program now in progress at the Pentagon).

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Military Affairs Reporter

Washington — By next summer there will be a million fewer men in the armed forces than at the end of the Korean War. There also will be fewer military bases and less military buying of hardware and other goods.

Overall, it is the biggest defense cutback since the wholesale curtailment after World War II, reflecting the administration's determination to keep the budget balanced and hold national spending within the $25 billion dollar debt limit.

A series of Pentagon orders, previously issued or now coming out, calls for:

1. Trimming total military manpower from a 1953 level of 3,600,000 to a mid-1958 level 2,600,000. Still further trimming may be in prospect.

2. Reducing civilian employees of the defense establishment by at least 350,000 from a force of 1½ million.

3. Closing down or curtailing operations at more than 100 bases, government-operated plants or plants run for the government by private firms.

4. Reducing the Air Force unit structure by not less than nine wings — and possibly more. The Air Force had 137 wings last spring. A wing ranges from 45 bombers to 75 fighter planes.

5. Cutting the Army to 15 divisions. The Army had 20 in 1953. It now has 17. There also are reductions in smaller units.

6. Shrinking the Navy's active fleet to a total of 901 ships by next June 30. Last June, the fleet had 967 ships. There now are about 940.

7. Delaying delivery (termed the stretch-out method) or terminating outright contracts for a wide variety of equipment and supplies, ranging from jet bombers to petroleum.

Virtually all of the recent, sharper cutback orders are aimed at keeping the Pentagon's spending during the fiscal year under a $38 billion dollar ceiling.

But the spending hold-down may be applied to future developments and requirements as well.

Pressures created by Russia's claimed success in the long range ballistic missile field, and by the Soviets' demonstrated scientific skill in launching an earth satellite are bringing increased demands both within some military circles and in Congress for a step-up in the U.S. missile development effort.

This could entail more expenditures, although the line taken by the Pentagon so far has been that bottlenecks now existing are not essentially caused by lack of funds.

If these pressures do eventually result in a Pentagon decision that more money is needed, there is a good chance that President Eisenhower will insist the military find the money for more missile work in its existing funds, through further cutbacks and economies.

This would be somewhat in line with a philosophy expressed by Eisenhower during his 1952 presidential campaign—that the armed forces should be able to get rid of June 30.

By next June 30, the Army will be down to 900,000 men. In 1953 it had an average of about 1,530,000 men. It had reached a level of 997,000 by last June 30.

Latest on the cutback list for the Army is the 1st Armored Division, at Ft. Polk, La. The Army is disbanding antiaircraft gun outfits and engineer organizations, is also closing down nine ordnance production plants and curtailing operations at five others. It is closing out eight storage and depot facilities, a terminal and a general hospital.

The Navy, in mothballing ships, is also reducing the number of its sailors. By next June 30, its manpower will be down to 645,000. This compares with a strength of 671,108 last June 30 and 794,440 in mid-1953.

About 70 smaller Navy installations are affected by plans to shut them down or drastically cut work there. These include depots and small port facilities.

The Air Force has been ordered to drop down to 857,000 by next June 30. Its strength last June 30 was 919,835. In June 1953, it had 977,593 men.

The Air Force is reducing by 10 the number of reserve squadrons and dropping three Air National Guard squadrons and is closing down about a score of its smaller installations.

The biggest impact of Air Force cutbacks on civilians, however, is showing in the stretch out or termination of contracts.

The aircraft industry has expressed deep concern about the effect of the reduction of military procurement on plants and on their skilled employees.

3 Portsmouth Buildings Burn

PORTSMEOUTH — Fire raced through three downtown buildings here today and was brought under control 2½ hours later, firemen reported.

The fire broke out at 1 a. m. in Lowes cafe, a two-story building, and spread to two adjoining structures on either side, Summers and Sons music store and the Western Auto store. Lt. James paid nearly $140 million in salaries during the bookkeeping year ending July 1, compared with the 1947 payroll of $68 million.

The Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, which had 12,238 employees as of the last count in March, had the biggest payroll of any department—more than $42 million. This is the agency that operates the state's 25 mental hospitals and all correctional institutions.

E. Pendleton of the fire department said.

He said the restaurant and music store were destroyed.

Pendleton estimated the loss would run "at least $100,000," and perhaps more.

Washington (AP) — By next summer there will be a million fewer men in the armed forces than at the end of the Korean War. There also will be fewer military bases and less military buying of hardware and other goods.

Over-all, it is the biggest defense cutback since the wholesale curtailment after World War II, reflecting the administration's determination to keep the budget balanced and hold national spending within the 275 billion dollar debt limit.

A series of Pentagon orders, previously issued or now coming out, calls for:

1. Trimming total military manpower from a 1953 level of 3,600,000 to a mid-1958 level 2,600,000. Still further trimming may be in prospect.

Virtually all of the recent, sharper cutback orders are aimed at keeping the Pentagon's spending during the fiscal year under a $3 billion dollar ceiling.

But the spending hold-down may be applied to future developments and requirements as well.

Pressures created by Russia's claimed success in the long range ballistic missile field, and by the Soviets' demonstrated scientific skill in launching an earth satellite are bringing increased demands both within some military circles and in Congress for a step-up in the U.S. missile development effort.

But if these pressures do eventually result in a Pentagon decision that more money is needed, there is a good chance that President Eisenhower will insist the military find the money for more missile work in its existing funds, through further cutbacks and personnel effort.

This would be somewhat in line with a philosophy expressed by Eisenhower during his 1952 presidential campaign—that the armed forces should be able to get rid of some weapons and tactics rendered obsolete by new developments.

The most direct impact of these cutbacks is, of course, on the plans and operations of the military. But there is also an effect upon industry and labor which works on government contracts, and upon communities depending in part on money spent by bases and personnel in their area.

Within about two months, the Defense Department issued two cutback orders to drop a total of about 200,000 men from the Army, Navy and Air Force. The first order, posted by former Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson on July 16, directed a cut of 100,000 men by next Dec. 31. The second, issued on Aug. 19, ordered a further cut of about 100,000 by next June 30.

By next June 30, the Army will be down to 900,000 men. In 1953 it had an average of about 1,330,000 men. It had reached a level of 997,500 by last June 30.

Latest on the cutback list for the Army is the 1st Armored Division, at Ft. Polk, La. The Army is disbanding antiaircraft gun outfits and engineer organizations, is also closing down nine ordnance production plants and curtailing operations at five others. It is closing out eight storage and depot facilities, a terminal and a general hospital.

State's Payroll Double Since '47

COLUMBUS (AP) — The current state payroll is costing more than twice as much as it did 10 years ago.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes reports that state employees were paid nearly $140½ million in salaries during the bookkeeping year ending July 1, compared with the 1947 payroll of $68 million.

The Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, which had 12,238 employees as of the last count in March, had the biggest payroll of any department—more than $42 million. This is the agency that operates the state's 25 mental hospitals and all correctional institutions.

E. Pendleton of the fire department said.

He said the restaurant and music store were destroyed.

Pendleton estimated the loss would run "at least $100,000," and perhaps more.

By next June 30, the Army will be down to 900,000 men. In 1953 it had an average of about 1,330,000 men. It had reached a level of 997,500 by last June 30.

Latest on the cutback list for the Army is the 1st Armored Division, at Ft. Polk, La. The Army is disbanding antiaircraft gun outfits and engineer organizations, is also closing down nine ordnance production plants and curtailing operations at five others. It is closing out eight storage and depot facilities, a terminal and a general hospital.

New Plays Scarce For the Big Time

NEW YORK (AP)—The summer theater script-testing season yielded a meager harvest of big time prospects for Broadway.

Usually a half dozen or more new plays make the trip from straw-hat testing grounds to the Main Stem. This year, however, only 50 scripts were tried compared with an average of 80, and only three have been definitely slotted for primaries here.

Assisting Mrs. Paxson were Mrs. Howard Perrill, Mrs. Maurice Hoyt and Mrs. C. L. Musser.

Out of town guests were Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Hoyt, Hillsboro; Mr. and Mrs. William Winkle, Wilmington; and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mealey, Dayton.

The only two states in the United States which are bounded each by four straight lines are Colorado and Wyoming.

Ohio Assured Warning Gear Of Top Quality

Coming of Sputnik
Alerts State Officials
To Civil Defense Need

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sputnik's surprise appearance as an earth satellite caused officials to reassure Ohioans that their atomic attack warning system is a better life saver than most states have devised.

"We have a system in Ohio that is more elaborate than in most other states," said Adj. Gen. Leo M. Kreber, Ohio Civil Defense chief.

The warning possibilities in Ohio are now about as effective as we can desire short of having a warning device in every home."

The elaborate warning system in this prime target state is linked to radar detection networks designed to give people enough time to take cover in event of an atomic attack by bombers or missiles.

Civil Defense officials said the possibility of a missile attack is changing earlier thinking about what Ohioans should do if a warning comes.

"There has to be a change in our time thinking because missiles are so much speedier," Kreber said.

"If you only get 10 minutes warning and can get down into your basement or similar suitable shelter, you have a chance unless a bomb explodes overhead," he added.

Kreber explained that many officials felt evacuation of target areas was the best safeguard against attack. But missiles could reduce the warning time from hours to minutes, he said.

Despite the rocket launching of Sputnik, national authorities have discounted Soviet claims of an effective intercontinental missile that could carry an atom bomb to any world target.

But Sputnik caused them to caution against selling Russian claims short.

U.S. Sen. William F. Knowland of California, Senate Republican leader, echoed that admonition during his recent Columbus visit. U.S. Sen. John W. Bricker, member of the joint Atomic Energy

Kreber said Ohio's warning system is linked to radar belts across Canada and elsewhere through Continental Air Defense Command Headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo.

The federal Civil Defense attack warning officer there would issue the actual warning for states to put their systems into operation.

Ohio has 10 warning points equipped to receive the signal simultaneously, although Cambridge is designated as the state warning point. The others are in Youngstown, Canton, Cleveland, Toledo, Findlay, Columbus, Iron-ton, Cincinnati and Dayton. Most are in patrol or police communications centers.

The warning points notify sheriffs of each county in their areas. Sheriffs pass the warning along to local Civil Defense directors, mayors and various officials down to the "grass roots" level under pre-arranged plans. Once sheriffs are notified, Civil Defense becomes a local responsibility.

It is up to Civil Defense directors and mayors to have warning sirens sounded in communities equipped with them.

Ohio has a "backup" warning system using highway patrol, police and sheriff radio facilities.

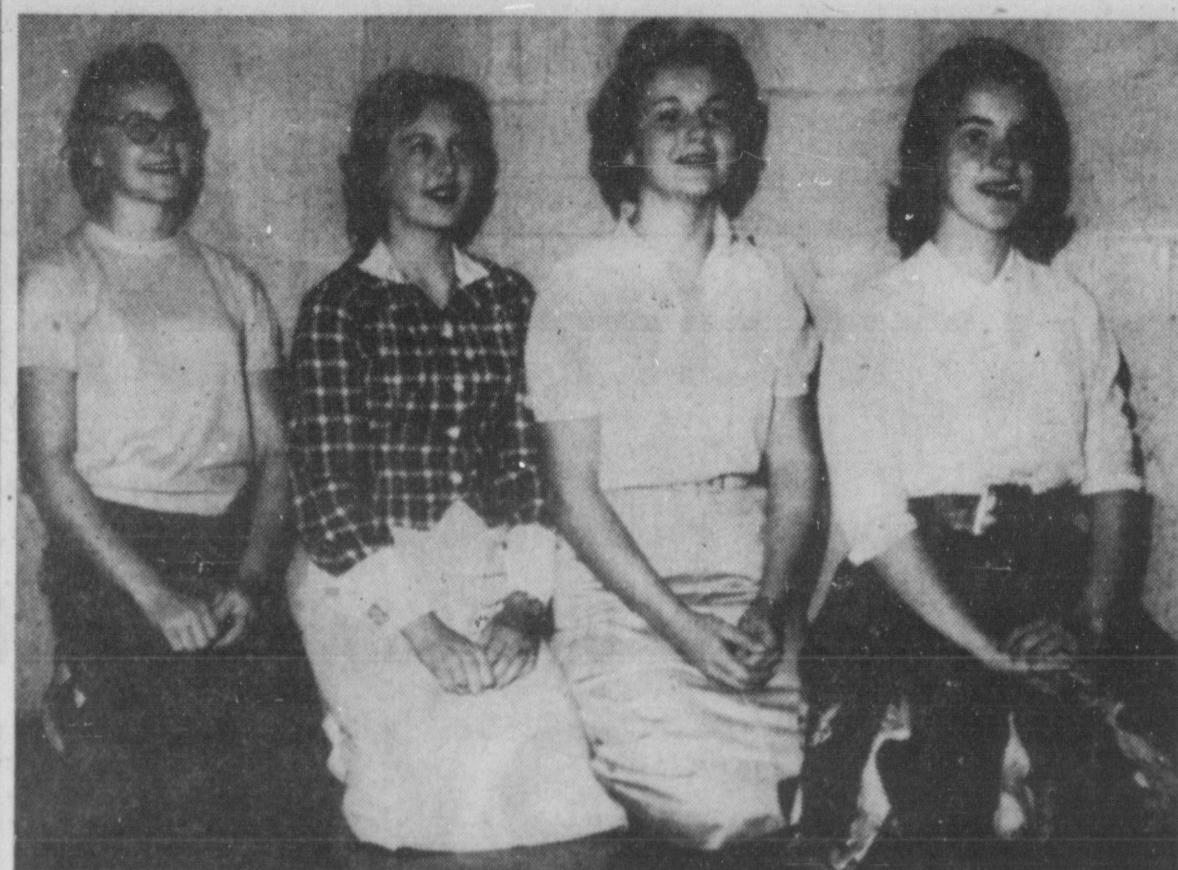

While Cambridge makes sure the other warning points are alerted, a highway patrolman broadcasts the warning to all patrol districts. If Cambridge fails to make the broadcast within 10 seconds, Findlay and Columbus relay the warning. Other patrol district officers are in Warren, Massillon, Bucyrus, Dayton, Wilmington and Jackson.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) requires each radio and television station to announce a national alert. They receive the word from Colorado Springs. Television and FM stations then leave the air until permitted to resume broadcasting.

Designated AM radio stations, after announcing the alert, leave their regular channels and use either 1240 or 640 kilocycles at reduced power to broadcast further information and orders to the public.

North New Mexico Hit By Heavy Rain

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—A farming community. Two hundred half a foot above flood state, then mass of wet air from the Gulf of Mexico collided with cool southwestern breezes over New Mexico mountains Sunday, bringing death and destruction to the northern half of the state.

High water also was reported in the Rio Grande at Albuquerque. Several times the river reached the business section.

More rains were forecast today.

Three persons died in head-on collisions on highways in the rain belt. A small boy tumbled to his death in the swollen Pecos River.

U. S. 64 between Santa Fe and Taos was blocked Sunday night by tons of rain-loosened boulders piled on the highway in the Rio Grande gorge. Several motorists plowed into rockslides before highway crews cleared the route.

Floodwaters flowed as much as two feet deep through downtown Estancia, central New Mexico.

Good Hope Grange Honors 4-H Members

The Wayne Snipper-Snappers and the Twin Oak Twigs, 4-H clubs, were honored guests at a Good Hope Grange Boosters Night in Wayne Hall.

Mrs. Norma Cunningham, county home economics extension agent, introduced the club members to the group and lauded them on their achievements in 4-H work.

Sewing awards were presented to members of the Snipper-Snappers and awards for outdoor cooking and vegetable gardening were given to the Twigs.

Advisors of the two clubs are Mrs. Keith Garinger, Mrs. Dana Kellenberger and Mrs. Eugene Thompson.

Mrs. Jack Howell read "It Is Better to Give," and "Thanksgiving at Grandpa's."

Approximately 70 people attended a covered dish dinner that preceded the meeting. Glen Whittington, master of the grange, conducted the session.

Tables were decorated with arrangements of fall flowers.

People . . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Wilbur Welton, who lives on Route 70 a few miles northwest of Washington C. H., has one of the many ideal farms in Fayette County. It is being farmed by Eddie McCoy who has been on the place several years and is doing an exceptionally good job.

Wilbur has 415 acres, 350 acres of which are on the east side of Route 70 and the remainder on the west side.

This year he had 136 acres of corn and there are at present 65 head of cattle, 220 spring pigs being fed, and 238 western ewes.

The Welton home, which was built by Jesse Welton, father of Wilbur, and who also was one of the progressive, substantial farmers of the county, has a background of natural forest trees on the west.

In front of the large frame homestead are two black locust trees, which were set out prior to the Civil War by Losson A. Parrett. A red cedar tree nearby probably was set out at the same time.

Immediately east of the highway in front of the Welton home is a field of 35 acres of pastureland, which, according to information handed down in the family, has never been farmed.

Originally the tract, as well as a sizeable piece of land to the northeastward, was covered with dense prairie grass, four to six feet in height. This would indicate that the tract had never been wooded over. The grass resisted all encroachment of forests.

Along a fence row on the west side of the Welton farm some of this same kind of grass has remained throughout the years, and, although cut every year, it continues to grow just about as prolific as Johnson grass. There are few if any heads on it.

REMANTS OF WHIRLWIND

Driving on Route 35 west near the B&O Railroad crossing recently, I saw several corn blades dropping from the sky, and looking up, noticed many more were drifting downward.

I realized that I had just missed a big whirlwind which must have swept across an adjacent cornfield, and carried a great deal of light material high into the air before the wind disintegrated as quickly as it had formed.

Warm October days are ideal for these mysterious circular air currents, which sometimes reach surprising proportions and have tremendous suction powers in their vortex.

FLOWERS UNUSUALLY LATE Some of the more hardy flowers have survived the frosts to date and are still displaying their beauty for the benefit of all who see them.

For instance, one rarely sees so many different kinds of roses in bloom after the middle of October. Dahlias also have kept blooming in the face of frosts, while marigolds, petunias, chrysanthemums and a few other kinds of flowers are still covered with beautiful blossoms.

I have heard of one cherry tree and one apple tree showing a few blooms and I would not be surprised.

ed to hear of japonica and some of the other flowering shrubs coming to life with scattered blossoms

FORTY YEARS AGO

Some of bloodiest fighting of World War I was under way, with the British and French pushing Germans back over a wide front in France, and Germans were driving Italians back. An American transport was sunk on its return trip. Four zeppelins were shot down over France, and many killed when zeppelins bombed London.

The Russians destroyed two German dreadnaughts, two heavy cruisers and 11 torpedo boats in the Bay of Riga.

The Cooks and Mt. Sterling elevator owned by Jones estate was sold to C. C. Clark and John H. Plum.

All registrants for military service were to be classified and each class called up in succession.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Stookey and Mrs. Ella Cook were killed instantly by east bound C&MV passenger train at Williams Rd., crossing in West Holland.

Fifteen speeders were arrested in the county over Sunday.

A sugar shortage developed here and only two pounds were allowed each customer at a cost of 25 cents for two pounds.

The Liberty Loan drive was under way and the county's quota of $507,000 was subscribed in one day.

Forty one million feet of lumber was used in building Camp Sherman of three times the original estimate.

"If the precedent being established today were to be followed similarly, of course, a resolution might be adopted by Congress—I hope it will not be—giving each state the right to erect two monuments to two of its distinguished citizens on the Capitol grounds.

"That would mean almost 300 such monuments on the Capitol grounds and in the Capitol (where statues are on display). Perhaps that is a bit too fanciful."

And Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.) said that, while he admired Taft a great deal, he feared future applications for memorials to others.

The question then arises as to why the Taft memorial legislation was unanimously approved.

One answer, suggested by a Capitol observer, may lie in the vote taken on a bill just before the Taft proposal came up.

That bill was to set up a commission to arrange a memorial to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It, too, won unanimous Senate passage.

This observer's idea is that there was a sort of quiet understanding among Democrats and Republicans to go along with each side's project.

The only mild objection to the FDR bill was registered by one of his longtime political foes, Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.).

Bridges went along. But he said:

"This memorial is to be paid by the taxpayers. It is the thought

Taft Memorial Sets Precedent

WASHINGTON (AP) — For many years, tourists to Washington have inspected the familiar landmarks on Capitol Hill: the Capitol, the Senate Office Building, the Supreme Court and the Library of Congress.

But within a year or so they will be seeing two new structures in that area. One will be a new Senate Office Building; the other, a 115-foot, pink marble bell tower honoring the late Robert A. Taft.

The new office building can be attributed to the growth of the federal government.

The memorial to the Ohio Republican senator is something else. Never before has a Congress permitted a memorial to be built with private funds on Capitol grounds.

Moreover, the Congress that went along with the idea was controlled by Democrats, many of whom strongly opposed Taft.

What happened? Did all the Democrats really approve, as indicated by their votes?

Not entirely.

For example, Sen. Theodore Green (D-R.I.), chairman of the rules committee that submitted the Taft memorial legislation to the Senate, said on the day of the vote:

"If the precedent being established today were to be followed similarly, of course, a resolution might be adopted by Congress—I hope it will not be—giving each state the right to erect two monuments to two of its distinguished citizens on the Capitol grounds.

"That would mean almost 300 such monuments on the Capitol grounds and in the Capitol (where statues are on display). Perhaps that is a bit too fanciful."

And Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.) said that, while he admired Taft a great deal, he feared future applications for memorials to others.

The question then arises as to why the Taft memorial legislation was unanimously approved.

One answer, suggested by a Capitol observer, may lie in the vote taken on a bill just before the Taft proposal came up.

That bill was to set up a commission to arrange a memorial to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. It, too, won unanimous Senate passage.

This observer's idea is that there was a sort of quiet understanding among Democrats and Republicans to go along with each side's project.

The only mild objection to the FDR bill was registered by one of his longtime political foes, Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.).

Bridges went along. But he said:

"This memorial is to be paid by the taxpayers. It is the thought

People . . . Places . . . and Things

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Wilbur Welton, who lives on Route 70 a few miles northwest of Washington C. H., has one of the many ideal farms in Fayette County. It is being farmed by Eddie McCoy who has been on the place several years and is doing an exceptionally good job.

Wilbur has 415 acres, 350 acres of which are on the east side of Route 70 and the remainder on the west side.

This year he had 136 acres of corn and there are at present 65 head of cattle, 229 spring pigs being fed, and 238 western ewes.

The Welton home, which was built by Jesse Welton, father of Wilbur, and who also was one of the progressive, substantial farmers of the county, has a background of natural forest trees on the west.

In front of the large frame homestead are two black locust trees, which were set out prior to the Civil War by Llossen A. Parrett. A red cedar tree nearby probably was set out at the same time.

Immediately east of the highway in front of the Welton home is a field of 35 acres of pastureland, which, according to information handed down in the family, has never been farmed.

Originally the tract, as well as a sizeable piece of land to the northeastward, was covered with dense prairie grass, four to six feet in height. This would indicate that the tract had never been wooded over. The grass resisted all encroachment of the forests.

Along a fence row on the west side of the Welton farm some of this same kind of grass has remained throughout the years, and, although cut every year, it continues to grow just about as prolific as Johnson grass. There are few if any heads on it.

REMANTS OF WHIRLWIND

Driving on Route 35 west near the B&O Railroad crossing recently, I saw several corn blades dropping from the sky, and looking up, noticed many more were drifting downward.

I realized that I had just missed a big whirlwind which must have swept across an adjacent cornfield, and carried a great deal of light material high into the air before the wind disintegrated as quickly as it had formed.

Warm October days are ideal for these mysterious circular air currents, which sometimes reach surprising proportions and have tremendous suction powers in their vortex.

FLOWERS UNUSUALLY LATE

Some of the more hardy flowers have survived the frosts to date and are still displaying their beauty for the benefit of all who see them.

For instance, one rarely sees so many different kinds of roses in bloom after the middle of October. Dahlias also have kept bloom in g in the face of frosts, while marigolds, petunias, chrysanthemums and a few other kinds of flowers are still covered with beautiful blossoms.

I have heard of one cherry tree and one apple tree showing a few blooms and I would not be surprised.

FOURTY YEARS AGO

Some of bloodiest fighting of World War I was under way, with the British and French pushing Germans back over a wide front in France, and Germans were driving Italians back. An American transport was sunk on its return trip. Four zeppelins were shot down over France, and many killed when zeppelins bombed London. The Russians destroyed two German dreadnaughts, two heavy cruisers and 11 torpedo boats in the Bay of Riga.

The Cooks and Mt. Sterling elevator owned by Jones estate was sold to C. C. Clark and John H. Plum.

All registrants for military service were to be classified and each class called up in succession.

Mr. and Mrs. Alf Stookey and Mrs. Ella Cook were killed instantly by east bound C&MV passenger train at Williams Rd. crossing in West Holland.

Fifteen speeders were arrested in the county over Sunday.

A sugar shortage developed here and only two pounds were allowed each customer at a cost of 25 cents for two pounds.

The Liberty Loan drive was under way and the county's quota of $507,000 was subscribed in one day.

Forty one million feet of lumber was used in building Camp Sherman of three times the original estimate.

A coal shortage here found hundreds of homes without heat, and plans were being made to confiscate coal in railroad yards, but supply of eight carloads arrived.

However the Washington Gas and Electric plant was facing a shutdown unless fuel could be obtained in 48 hours.

Taft Memorial Sets Precedent

WASHINGTON (AP) — For many years, tourists to Washington have inspected the familiar landmarks on Capitol Hill: the Capitol, the Senate Office Building, the Supreme Court and the Library of Congress.

But within a year or so they will be seeing two new structures in that area. One will be a new Senate Office Building; the other, a 115-foot, pink marble bell tower honoring the late Robert A. Taft.

Illini Facing Spartans after Gopher Victory

Michigan State Gets Lumps from Purdue In Upset of Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Illinois jumps right from the frying pan into the fire this week and Coach Ray Eliot and his band of Illini know right where they're heading.

They skipped out of the frying pan Saturday when they upset Minnesota 34-13.

This Saturday, they hit the fire again Michigan State, the badly mangled giant of the Big Ten.

The Spartans, No. 1 team in the country in last week's Associated Press poll, were trampled by floundering Purdue 20-13 in the biggest upset of the season so far.

"Michigan State will be really out to get us now," Eliot said today. "And to make matters worse, it's their homecoming."

The Purdue defeat could cause Michigan State to lose a Rose Bowl bid. Ohio State and Iowa, the defending champion, still are undefeated in conference play.

On the other side of the Rose Bowl, the Pacific Coast Conference, things are just as misty. Washington State could have neatly wrapped it up Saturday by beating Oregon.

But Oregon won the game 14-13 when State quarterback Robby Newman missed the extra point after the Cougars' second touchdown.

State already had licked California and Stanford, the other Rose Bowl eligibles. But State can still make it. Everything hinges on how Oregon does against California this week and Stanford Nov. 2.

Oklahoma, which won its 44th straight game Saturday, a 47-0 rout of Kansas, goes against Colorado this week.

In the Southwest Conference, there doesn't seem to be a team capable of blocking Texas A&M's surge to another title, although at the moment, the Aggies are tied with Texas and Rice for the lead.

The Aggies received an unexpected loft from Texas Saturday when the Longhorns, a weak sister in the loop last year, upended Arkansas 17-0. The Aggies had no easy pickings, either, escaping with a 7-0 decision over Texas Christian.

The tough Atlantic Coast Conference race could be decided this week when Duke and North Carolina State tangle. The Blue Devils, with a spotless 5-0 overall record, will be favored. They humbled Wake Forest 34-7 Saturday. Unless catastrophe strikes, Duke's path to the Orange Bowl appears clear. North Carolina State is on probation.

Maryland, until last year a power always to be reckoned with, is showing signs of coming back under Tommy Mont. The Terps jacked their record to 2-2 Saturday by upsetting North Carolina 21-7.

In the Southeastern Conference, Auburn's 3-0 triumph over Georgia Tech left only Florida as a problem of any sorts for Auburn.

Army, which licked Pitt 29-13, jumped into the lead for Eastern honors which might not be settled until the Cadets meet Navy Nov. 30.

George Sand, the French woman writer who flaunted a short haircut, was versatile. Before she died in 1876 she wrote memorable romantic, socialist and pastoral novels.

Betting at Fair Shows Increase

But Decrease Shown At Most Others

The 1957 Fayette County Fair was one of the few fairs in the state at which pari-mutuel betting showed an increase over the year before. This was revealed today in a report from the office of State Treasurer James A. Rhodes, which said "betting on horse races at Ohio county fairs is on the decline."

From betting on the races this year, the Fayette County Fair will get $443.92 back from the state as its share of the tax. Last year its share was only $212.84. There were four days of racing this year, compared with only three the year before when Saturday's card was rained out. However, Fair officials said without hesitation that "betting was up here this year."

HERE ARE the amounts fairs will get from betting this year: Jackson county, $59.12; Fayette $443.92; Knox, $305.54; Shelby, $121.92; Crawford $55.86; Auglaize, $394.60; Champaign, $277.70; Mercer, $79.72; Franklin, $643.16; Miami, $466.30; Seneca, $130.70; Darke, $934; Madison, $225.82; Marion, $199.72; Mahoning, $564.90; Van Wert, $250.92; Stark, $130.40; Williams, $57.04; Fairfield, $657.32; Delaware, $7,821.14; Plain City independent $220.06; Richwood independent fair, $125.92.

Two years ago the state distributed $19,710.55 in taxes on pari-mutuel betting among 22 county and independent fairs which permitted wagering. Last year, 24 fairs received $17,427.75. This year, 22 fairs will receive $14,671.78. This is $5,034.87 less than the same number of fairs received in 1955.

Delaware county, with its famous "Little Brown Jug" pacing classic, will get more of the pari-mutuel tax money than all of the other 21 counties combined. Even so, Delaware's tax cut is down to $7,823.14 this year from $10,453.99 in 1956.

The new one-half of one percent tax on par-mutuel betting, which the legislature enacted this year for the benefit of county fairs and the state fair, has brought in $395,431.78 since June 11 when it went into effect. This money and more to come will be distributed by Rhodes early in 1958.

Total taxes collected for the Ohio Fairs Fund indicates betting in excess of $79 million at big Ohio tracks since June 11.

Miami '11' Awaiting Chance To Scalp Giant-Killer Purdue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Johnny Pont's Miami Redskins have a chance this week to put the rugged Mid-American Conference on the map of the season Saturday night.

The Oxford crew, with a 3-1 record, goes against Purdue Saturday at Lafayette, Ind. And Purdue, after three straight losses, shocked the experts Saturday by dethroning Michigan State's top-ranked Spartans 20-13.

So, if the Redskins can scalp the team that whipped the No. 1 squad in the country, the Mid-American will get a boost not too long ago the Redskins whipped Indiana and Northwestern—a pair of conquests which boosted Miami coach Ara Parseghian to the job at Evanson.

It was just no contest against Indiana. The Hoosiers fumbled the ball away four times, and all led to Buckeye touchdowns. Ohio also intercepted five passes as the Indiana side-saddle T offense failed to function.

The once-beaten Badgers, on the rebound from the 21-7 setback at the hands of Iowa last weekend could prove a man-sized stumbling block on the Buckeye road to a fourth straight conquest.

Illini Facing Spartans after Gopher Victory

Michigan State Gets Lumps from Purdue In Upset of Season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Illinois jumps right from the frying pan into the fire this week and Coach Ray Elliot and his band of Illini know right where they're headed.

They skipped out of the frying pan Saturday when they upset Minnesota 34-13.

This Saturday, they hit the fire against Michigan State, the badly mangled giant of the Big Ten.

The Spartans, No. 1 team in the country in last week's Associated Press poll, were trampled by floundering Purdue 20-13 in the biggest upset of the season so far.

"Michigan State will be really out to get us now," Elliot said today. "And to make matters worse, it's their homecoming."

The Purdue defeat could cause Michigan State to lose a Rose Bowl bid. Ohio State and Iowa, the defending champion, still are undefeated in conference play.

On the other side of the Rose Bowl, the Pacific Coast Conference, things are just as misty. Washington State could have neatly wrapped it up Saturday by beating Oregon.

But Oregon won the game 14-13 when State quarterback Bobby Newman missed the extra point after the Cougars' second touchdown.

State already had licked California and Stanford, the other Rose Bowl eligibles. But State can still make it. Everything hinges on how Oregon does against California this week and Stanford Nov. 2.

Oklahoma, which won its 44th straight game Saturday, a 47-0 rout of Kansas, goes against Colorado.

In the Southwest Conference, there doesn't seem to be a team capable of blocking Texas A&M's surge to another title, although at the moment, the Aggies are tied with Texas and Rice for the lead.

The Aggies received an unexpected loaf from Texas Saturday when the Longhorns, a weak sister in the loop last year, upended Arkansas 17-0. The Aggies had no easy pickings, either, escaping with a 7-0 decision over Texas Christian.

The tough Atlantic Coast Conference race could be decided this week when Duke and North Carolina State tangle. The Blue Devils, with a spotless 5-0 over-all record, will be favored. They humbled Wake Forest 34-7 Saturday. Unless catastrophe strikes, Duke's path to the Orange Bowl appears clear. North Carolina State is on probation.

Maryland, until last year a power always to be reckoned with, is showing signs of coming back under Tommy Mont. The Terps jacked their record to 2-2 Saturday by upsetting North Carolina 21-7.

In the Southeastern Conference, Auburn's 3-0 triumph over Georgia Tech left only Florida as a problem of any sorts for Auburn.

Army, which licked Pitt 29-13, jumped into the lead for Eastern honors which might not be settled until the Cadets meet Navy Nov. 30.

George Sand, the French woman writer who flaunted a short haircut, was versatile. Before she died in 1876 she wrote memorable romantic, socialist and pastoral novels.

Betting at Fair Shows Increase

But Decrease Shown At Most Others

The 1957 Fayette County Fair was one of the few fairs in the state at which pari-mutuel betting showed an increase over the year before. This was revealed today in a report from the office of State Treasurer James A. Rhodes, which said "betting on horse races at Ohio county fairs is on the decline."

From betting on the races this year, the Fayette County Fair will get $443.92 back from the state as its share of the tax. Last year its share was only $212.84. There were four days of racing this year, compared with only three the year before when Saturday's card was rained out. However, Fair officials said without hesitation that "betting was up here this year."

HERE ARE the amounts fairs will get from betting this year: Jackson county, $59.12; Fayette $443.92; Knox, $305.54; Shelby, $121.92; Crawford $55.86; Auglaize, $394.60; Champaign, $277.70; Mercer, $79.72; Franklin, $643.16; Miami, $466.30; Seneca, $130.70; Darke, $934; Madison, $225.82; Marion, $199.72; Mahoning, $564.90; Van Wert, $250.92; Stark, $130.40; Williams, $57.04; Fairfield, $657.32; Delaware, $7,823.14; Plain City independent $220.06; Richwood independent fair, $125.92.

Two years ago the state distributed $19,710.55 in taxes on pari-mutuel betting among 22 county and independent fairs which permitted wagering. Last year, 24 fairs received $17,427.75. This year, 22 fairs will receive $14,671.78. This is $5,034.87 less than the same number of fairs received in 1955.

Delaware county, with its famous "Little Brown Jug" pacing classic, will get more of the pari-mutuel tax money than all of the other 21 counties combined. Even so, Delaware's tax cut is down to $7,823.14 this year from $10,453.99 in 1956, and $11,520.77 in 1955.

The new one-half of one percent tax on pari-mutuel betting, which the legislature enacted this year for the benefit of county fairs and the state fair, has brought in $395,431.78 since June 11 when it went into effect. This money and more to come will be distributed by Rhodes early in 1958.

Total taxes collected for the Ohio Fairs Fund indicates betting in excess of $79 million at big Ohio tracks since June 11.

Mixers Beat Big Boys To Deadlock Pony Lead

The Mixers dropped the Big Boys, 13-0, in a Pony Football League game at Gardner Park Saturday night, moving into a first-place with the inactive Splinters squad.

Both the Mixers and the Splinters now have 2-0-1 records, and the league championship will be decided when they meet in the final game of the season Saturday night.

In the second game of a double-header last Saturday, the Feeders and the Marksmen, cellar teams in the five-team circuit, played classy defensive ball all the way to a 0-0 tie.

Each team did some running in

Buckeyes Ready For Badger Team

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio State's Bucks, not even breathing hard after Saturday's 56-0 rout of Indiana's "pore-little boys," looked forward today to a tougher chore against Wisconsin.

The once-beaten Badgers, on the rebound from the 21-7 setback at the hands of Iowa last weekend could prove a man-sized stumbling block on the Buckeye road to a fourth straight conquest.

It was just no contest against Indiana. The Hoosiers fumbled the ball away four times, and all led to Buckeye touchdowns. Ohio also intercepted five passes as the Indiana "side-saddle T" offense failed to function.

Ward Grabs Laurels In Big Car Race

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Rodger Ward of Los Angeles pulled out of the pack early and led the rest of the way Sunday as he won a 100-mile U. S. Auto Club big car race.

Only Jimmy Bryan of Phoenix, Ariz., trailing at the finish by about three seconds, gave Ward much trouble.

Jud Larson of Hickman Mills, Mo., was third.

the deadlock, but neither team could get far enough. Whenever one team began to get too close, the defensive line tightened up.

BILLY MARTING and Dale Lynch scored the touchdowns for the Mixers, with Tommy Curd adding the extra point to Lynch's TD. Marting's score was an 81-yard gallop in the first quarter that broke the Big Boys' spirit. Lynch scored from the 10-yard-line on a quarterback sneak in the second.

The Big Boys and the Marksmen will play in the first game Saturday night. The championship contest will be the scheduled second game.

Miami '11' Awaiting Chance To Scalp Giant-Killer Purdue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Johnny Pont's Miami Redskins have a chance this week to put the rugged Mid-American Conference on the collegiate football map with a resounding splash.

The Oxford crew, with a 3-1 record, goes against Purdue Saturday at Lafayette, Ind. And Purdue, after three straight losses, shocked the experts Saturday by dethroning Michigan State's top Ranked Spartans 20-13.

So, if the Redskins can scalp the team that whipped the No. 1 squad in the country, the Mid-American will get a boost. Not too long ago the Redskins whipped Indiana and Northwestern—a pair of conquests which boosted Miami coach Ara Parseghian to the job at Evanston.

The Oxford crew, with a 3-1 record, goes against Purdue Saturday at Lafayette, Ind. And Purdue, after three straight losses, shocked the experts Saturday by dethroning Michigan State's top Ranked Spartans 20-13.

Mid-American: Western Michigan at Toledo, Bowling Green at Kent State, Ohio U. at Marshall.

Ohio Conference: Oberlin at Kenton, Akron at Wooster, Marietta at Oberlein, Denison at Capital, Hiram at Mount Union, Heidelberg at Muskingum (night).

Mid-Ohio League: Defiance at Ohio Northern, Wilmington at Ashland.

Presidents' Conference: John Carroll at Case Tech, Western Reserve at Wayne.

Non-conference: College of Pacific at Cincinnati, Xavier at Dayton, St. Vincent (Pa.) at Baldwin Wallace, Wittenberg at Washington & Lee, Miami at Purdey, central State at Tennessee State, and Ohio Wesleyan at Wabash.

Miami whipped Ohio U. 26-0, Bowling Green topped Toledo 29-0, and Marshall eased by Kent State 7-6 in Saturday's Mid-American games. Bowling Green, defending champion which was tied by Western Michigan a couple of weeks ago, tangles with Kent State this Saturday, and Western Michigan plays Toledo.

The week-end slate calls for 23 games, 11 against out-of-state foes. Last week the Buckeye team lost six of eight with the outsiders, and now have 22 wins, 23 losses and four ties in interstate play.

Otterbein, with a 13-7 win over Hiram, took over top place in the Ohio Conference with 3-0, and the statewide lead with 4-0. The Cardinals are the only team of the state's 35 with a clean record, although Bowling Green and Capital have been tied but not defeated. Baldwin Wallace is the only one without at least a tie to show for the season.

The Otterbeins take on thrice-beaten Marietta this week and are favored to hang onto their lead.

Bluffton, all alone at the peak in the Mid-Ohio loop with four in a row, meets Findlay Friday night. The Findlay team has a 1-1 record.

The weekend slate:

Friday night: Youngstown at Eastern Kentucky; Findlay at Bluffton (Mid-Ohio league).

Saturday:

Western Conference: Ohio State at Wisconsin.

Mid-American: Western Michigan at Toledo, Bowling Green at Kent State, Ohio U. at Marshall.

A X Y D L B A A X R
I S L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Judge Deciding On Future of Teamster Union

Jurist Refuses To Lift Ban Against Hoffa Taking Over Helm

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal court judge decides today whether to put court-named receivers in charge of the scandal-rocked Teamsters Union.

Attorneys are arguing before Federal Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts also whether James R. Hoffa should be barred for a longer time from taking over the union's helm.

Letts, acting on the complaint of a 13-man group of New York Teamsters members, already has Hoffa under a temporary restraining order against his assuming the presidency of the nation's largest labor union.

In this morning's hearing, the judge refused to lift the present temporary restraining order.

The plaintiff rank-and-file group has charged that Hoffa, accused of corruption in Senate Rackets Committee hearings, rigged his own election at the recent Teamsters convention in Miami Beach.

CHAIRMAN McCLELLAN (D-Ark.) of the Senate committee contends more than half the convention delegates were illegally chosen. He said one of the delegates who participated in the convention actually was not elected formally by his local union as a delegate until a week after the convention ended. He did not name the delegate.

Judge Letts must decide whether to convert his restraining order which bars Hoffa from becoming union president into a preliminary injunction, with the same effect, and whether court masters should be named to supervise the union pending new elections.

Dave Beck, the union's retiring president, also accused of corruption in Senate committee testimony, has announced he is holding up plans to step out in Hoffa's favor pending the outcome of the court challenge.

In an answer to the contentions of the plaintiffs, the union has challenged the right of the court to intervene in the political affairs of a private organization.

The union contends that while there may have been violations of a number of union constitutional provisions over electing and seating delegates, this was cured by a ruling from Beck waiving these constitutional provisions under the union president's power to interpret the constitution.

Judge Murry Celebrates 92nd Birthday

Sherman A. Murry, known to hundreds affectionately as "judge," passed a quiet day at his home, 626 S. Fayette St., with Mrs. Murry, although Oct. 21 is a big date on his calendar—this is his 92nd birthday.

While Judge Murry may not be quite as spry physically as he once was, he is as alert mentally as ever. He keeps up on affairs of the world and in his home town...and still has very definite opinions on all of them.

For the last few years, he has stayed pretty close to his home. He reads a lot in the winter and tends his flowers and little backyard garden in the summer. Among his hobbies is the growing of Regal lilies, which he likes to cut and give to his old friends.

Mr. Murry has been known as "judge" to many ever since he served as judge of the Probate Court, 1927-1937, in the days before the judge was required to be an attorney and member of the Bar.

A native of Good Hope, he began his career of public service as a school teacher. Later he was postmaster in Washington C. H., a justice of the peace and finally, after his term in the Probate Court, a member of the Washington C. H. council from 1939-1945, which he served as president and judge of the Police Court the last four years. He retired in 1945.

Why gamble with fire

If you have no more insurance on your property today than you did five years ago, you are taking much too big a gamble. Cost to repair even partial fire loss could very easily exceed the amount of insurance you have. We hope you never do have a fire, but we also hope that you will have all the insurance you need when fire does strike. Better bring your insurance up-to-date now.

$265 Million Trucked Under Police Guard

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — An estimated $265 million in securities, half of them negotiable, were transported two miles in open trucks from the old State Mutual Assurance Co. of America building on Main Street to new quarters on Lincoln Street.

They were packed in strong boxes for the nine trips and accompanied by a motorcycle patrolman, four police officers with riot guns in a squad car, the company's security car and a fire emergency truck.

Mongrel Is Credited As Hero During Fire

DALLAS (AP) — Susie, a small black dog of doubtful ancestry, basked in glory after saving the life of her mistress. Susie apparently was the first to discover a fire that swept through an apartment building Sunday. Her mistress, Mrs. Kay E. Lucke, said Susie awakened her by barking furiously and tugging at the bed.

'The Shadow' Is Host At Mystic Ghost Party

IT WAS A SPOOKY SITUATION when the White Shrine entered at an unusual pre-Halloween party Saturday night. Here Mrs. Helen Dunton, decked out as a witch, who gave the mystified guests instructions in the old cemetery near the Thompson Storage building.

"The Shadow" was host to 275 people at a "Ghost Party" in Washington C. H. Saturday night. The affair, sponsored by Ralph Kah Shrine No. 60, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, was to acquaint the public with the White Shrine organization and its mission.

The guest list was restricted to persons affiliated with the Masonic Order and White Shrine members themselves.

The unusual invitations were signed by "The Shadow" and told those who received them to assemble at the old graveyard behind the Pennington Bakery for further directions.

At the bakery, guests were told to make their next stop the City Ice and Fuel Division at the end of N. Fayette St. Ghost Diana Hyer at the ice house instructed the guests to proceed to the final stop which turned out to be the American Legion Hall.

Once there, everyone was greeted by Howard Wright who was dressed as Frankenstein. The entertainment was square dancing with David Whiteside, assisted by Jack Hatmacher doing the calling.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the evening were "Witches Den"—a game room, presided over by Mrs. Paul Knisley; a fortune teller, Mrs. Raymond Stephens; and apple bobbing.

Mrs. Thomas Christopher is the Worthy High Priestess and Mr. Christopher is the Watchman of Shepherds for the Shrine here.

Assisting in the activities throughout the evening were Mrs. Helen Dunton, Miss Vera Vail, Mrs. Malcom Parrett, Mrs. Dorothy Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Hyer, Mr. and Mrs. John Dial and Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Whiteside.

Virginia Race Law Doomed

Supreme Court Shuns Review of School Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today dealt a death blow to Virginia's Pupil Placement Act.

The tribunal did so by refusing to review a decision in two school segregation cases in which the state's 1956 placement law was declared unconstitutional.

The decision, dealing with Pupil Placement Act tests in Norfolk and Newport News, was given by U. S. District Judge Walter E. Hoffman of Norfolk and was affirmed by the U. S. Circuit Court in Richmond.

The Supreme Court's refusal to review the decision lets it stand unchanged. The refusal was announced in a brief order which gave no reason and made no comment.

School officials of both Norfolk and Newport News, joined by the state's attorney general had appealed.

THEY CONTENDED the action of the lower courts "makes even more difficult solution of the most difficult social problem presented to the people of this country in eight decades."

The Pupil Placement Act removed power to assign pupils from local school boards and division superintendents and conferred the authority on a pupil placement board. The appeal said the board was authorized to act on stated bases, "none in any way involving race or color."

The Circuit Court said the act provided no adequate remedy to Negroes because of the fixed policy of Virginia school officials on segregation and because another act of the Legislature calls for closing of schools and withdrawal of state funds upon any departure from segregation.

Mrs. Helen Dunton, Cryptographer, guests were told to proceed to the Pennington Bakery for further directions.

At the bakery, guests were told to make their next stop the City Ice and Fuel Division at the end of N. Fayette St. Ghost Diana Hyer at the ice house instructed the guests to proceed to the final stop which turned out to be the American Legion Hall.
